ProAc's Response D30Rs are easy to underestimate. They're decently large two-way floorstanders that come in a traditional wooden box and are bass-loaded by a reflex port. Nothing unusual there, but as always with hi-fi it's all about the detail - and it's here ProAc's considerable engineering skill shines through. The cabinets feel solid and have crisp (but not sharp) edges that give the impression of proper craftsmanship. The ebony veneer on our review sample is an excellent and structured way. The integration between the drivers is evident throughout. Quality build is an issue than it might be. Quality build is an issue than it might be. Quality build is an issue than it might be.
